

Bibliography of Articles and Resources on the DFCI Patient Safety Journey

Allen S. With work, Dana-Farber learns from its mistakes. Boston Globe 11 30 2004.

Bohmer R, Winslow A. The Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. HBS Case #699-025. Boston, MA: Harvard Business School Publishing; 1999.

Bohmer RM. Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, The (TN). Harvard Business School Teaching Note 603-092. Boston, MA: Harvard Business School Publishing; 2003.

Branowicki P, O'Neill JB, Dwyer JL, Marino BL, Houlahan K, Billett A. Improving complex medication systems: an interdisciplinary approach. J Nurs Adm 2003;33(4):199-200.

Connor M, Ponte PR, Conway J. Multidisciplinary approaches to reducing error and risk in a patient

Conway J, Nathan D, Benz E, et. al. Key Learning from the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute's Ten-Year Patient Safety Journey. Accepted for publication and presentation. American Society of Clinical Oncology, June 2006.

Conway JB. Developing a strategic plan: leadership for organizational change. Psychiatr Serv 2004;55(3):259-60.

Conway JB. Patient safety: it starts at the top. Trustee 2000;53(5):24.

Conway JB. Preserving and restoring patient trust. Healthc Exec 2002;17(2):72-3.

Dinning C, Branowicki P, O'Neill JB, Marino BL, Billett A. Chemotherapy error reduction: a multidisciplinary approach to create templated order sets. J Pediatr Oncol Nurs 2005;22(1):20-30.

Gandhi TK, Bartel SB, Shulman LN, et al. Medication safety in the ambulatory chemotherapy setting. Cancer 2005;104(11):2477-83.

Grant SM. Who's to blame for tragic error? Am J Nurs 1999;99(9):9.

Knox R. Doctor's Orders Killed Cancer Patient Dana-Farber Admits Drug Overdose Caused Death Of Globe Columnist, Damage To Second Woman. Boston Globe (March 23, 1995). Note: Article publicly announced the Lehman and Bateman overdoses.

Organizational change in the face of highly public errors: The Dana-Farber Cancer Institute experience. AHRQ WebM&M., 2005. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at <http://webmm.ahrq.gov/perspectives.aspx> )

Patients and families make a difference at Dana-Farber. Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, 2002. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at <http://www.dana-farber.org/abo/news/publications/pop/fall-winter-2002/patients.asp>.)

Ponte PR, Conlin G, Conway JB, et al. Making patient-centered care come alive: achieving full integration of the patient's perspective. J Nurs Adm 2003;33(2):82-90.

Principles of a fair and just culture. Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, 2000. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at <http://www.dana-farber.org/abo/news/tools/justculture.asp>.)

Preventing medication errors for the oncology nurse. Stratos Institute for Healthcare Performance, Inc., in collaboration with the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and the Oncology Nursing Society (ONS), 2000. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at <http://www.stratosinstitute.com/ONToday/ONT0004out.htm>.)

Reid Ponte P, Connor M, DeMarco R, Price J. Linking patient and family-centered care and patient safety: the next leap. Nurs Econ 2004;22(4):211-3, 5.

The RX Files: Hospitals are prescribing healthy doses of IT to divert costly and sometimes fatal medication errors. 2000. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at http://www.cio.com/archive/110100\_rx.html?printversion=yes.)

Reducing medical errors and improving patient safety: success stories from the front line of medicine. National Coalition on Health Care and the Institute for Healthcare Improvement 2000. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at http://www.nchc.org/releases/medical\_errors.pdf.)

Roush W. Dana-Farber death sends a warning to research hospitals. Science 1995;269(5222):295-6. Sievers TD, Lagan MA, Bartel SB, Rasco C, Blanding PJ. Variation in administration of cyclophosphamide and mesna in the treatment of childhood malignancies. J Pediatr Oncol Nurs 2001;18(1):37-45.

Strategies for Leadership: Hospital executives and their role in patient safety. American Hospital Association, 2001. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at http://www.hospitalconnect.com/aha/key\_issues/medication\_safety/contents/conwaytool.pdf)

Strategies for Leadership: Patient and Family Centered Care. American Hospital Association and The Institute for Family Centered Care, 2005. (Accessed 12 29 2005, at http://www.aha.org/aha/key\_issues/patient\_safety/resources/patientcenteredcare.html.)

Weingart SN, Conway JB. Promoting an organizational infrastructure for patient safety In: Berman S, ed. From Front Office to Front Line: Essential Issues for Health Care Leaders. Chicago: Joint Commission Resources; 2005.

For further information: james\_conway@dfci.harvard.edu